CANNON BEACH TOLOVANA PARK

Grant's Landing

CANNON BEACH is the site of the world's third largest monolith, Haystack Rock.

The U.S. Schooner, SHARK, was shipwrecked near Tillamook Head in 1846 and the cannon drifted onto the beach near Arch Cape. Later it was hauled to higher ground and from this, the name Cannon Beach was derived. While in Cannon Beach, enjoy live theater at the Coaster Theater, visit the art galleries where artists offer various works.

Beautiful beaches, scenic wonders and the charm of an artistic community. This is what makes Cannon Beach unique on the Oregon Coast.

TOLOVANA PARK

Excellent tourist accommodations can be found in Tolovana Park. Motels, condominiums and fine dining. Easy access to the beach.

SEASIDE

Welcome to Seaside and Gearhart

The Pacific Ocean is never out of season; so enjoy a leisurely walk on the beach, and visit some of our points of interest.

Visit the Turnaround at the end of Broadway. This is the end of the Lewis & Clark Trail. Then there's the Lewis & Clark Salt Cairn, where members of the expedition rendered salt from sea water.

The Seaside Aquarium at 200 N. Prom is like a visit to the bottom of the sea.

Fascinating display of sea anemones, shell fish of every description, Sea Turtles, Wolf fish and the always popular seals.

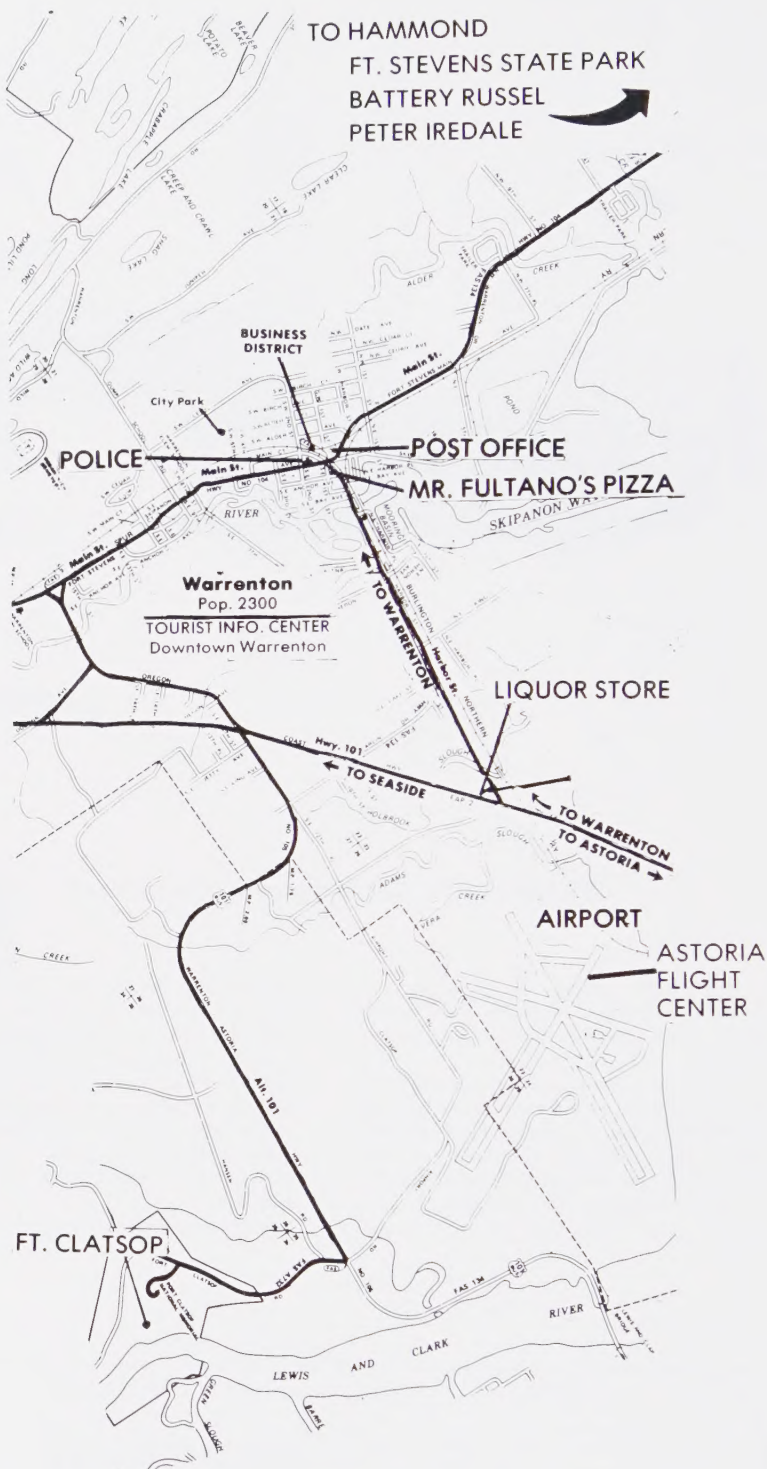

If you're looking for a game of golf, the Seaside Public course is 9 holes, and Gearhart has a very demanding 18 hole course that is open to the public. Built in 1892 Gearhart Golf links is the oldest in Oregon and second oldest on the West Coast.

Enjoy your visit to the Oregon Coast.

WARRENTON and HAMMOND

City of Warrenton was platted by Daniel Warren in 1891, and the original home of the Warren family still stands.

New Astoria was incorporated in 1899 and was renamed Hammond for A.B. Hammond a railroad builder. The Point Adams Lighthouse in Hammond was established in 1875 and later was used as a Coast Guard Lifeboat station.

Ft. Stevens was built in 1864 to guard the entrance to the Columbia River and is now Oregon's biggest state park. Near there is Battery Russell with concrete gun emplacements and underground tunnels. The fort was fired on by a Japanese submarine in 1942.

Boat mooring and charter fishing are available in both Warrenton & Hammond.

FOR CAMPERS . . .

Fort Stevens State park is a walk through history!

It is one of the largest state parks in Oregon with over 600 campsites suitable for everything from pup tents to RVs.

The park boasts miles of well maintained asphalt trails that can lead you from the campsites to Coffenbury Lake . . . then on to Battery Russel, just one of the many big gun emplacements left behind when the fort was decommissioned . . . then explore the wreck of the Peter Iredale on the beach. The extensive trail system extends all the way to the south jetty where the surf pounds against huge boulders and tiny crabs live in between the rocks. This is a place favored by local surf fishermen. The trails are great for summertime bike expeditions and nature trails provide a peaceful walk through the woods.

Fort Stevens was originally built in 1864 to guard the entrance to the Columbia River, and remained active during both World Wars. In 1942, Fort Stevens saw its only action when a Japanese submarine fired on the Fort. The shelling caused no damage, and since the submarine was out of range, Fort Stevens did not return fire. This incident made Fort Stevens the only military installation to be attacked by an enemy since the War of 1812.

Although none of the original guns of the Fort exist today, a film is shown at the Visitor's Interpretive Center which shows these huge guns mounted on disappearing carriages.

ASTORIA BRIDGE

"The bridge to nowhere" was opened in the summer of 1966. Prior to its opening, a ferry shuttled passengers and cars between Astoria and Megler, Washington. The bridge truss is 1,232 feet long, 4.12 miles overall, and is listed in the Guinness Book of World Records as the longest continuous truss bridge in the world. An additional south bound lane & toll booth has recently been added.

ASTORIA . . . THE TOWN TOO STUBBORN TO DIE

Astoria takes its name from John Jacob Astor, who envisioned our community as "The New York of The West". With a natural harbor and the potential for development, Astor's dream could, someday, be right on the mark.

Astoria's history is colorful and expansive. Originally the site of a Hudson's Bay fur trading post, Astoria changed hands for a brief period in 1813 when the British took control and renamed the outpost Fort George. In 1818 Astoria was restored to the United States.

By the mid-1800s Astoria had turned from fur trading to salmon and timber. By 1883 there were 24 canneries operating at full steam in Astoria alone. By 1913 the salmon catch became a big business with runs from 30 to 40 million fish each season. All that remains of those canneries are the pilings.

Three fires raged through the town. The first in the summer of 1877 which destroyed a two block area. But the second fire in 1883 swept through a large part of town. The biggest was in December 1922 when 32 blocks, including the entire business district was totally destroyed.

Astoria today is a recreational haven, close to the beach, several lakes and Fort Stevens State Park. There is something for everyone year round. Enjoy your stay!

THE COMPLEAT PHOTOGRAPHER

WELCOME

We invite you to our stores. Bring your camera and we will clean your lens and check your batteries. We answer picture taking questions and carry all the film and equipment needed for the amateur photographer.

We have quite a collection of historic photographs. Many are available as postcards and prints, and if you ask us, we'll give you a free postcard.

We offer the best in photo finishing, and have the largest selection of cameras, lens, batteries, accessories, straps, darkroom supplies, film and picture frames.

A visit to Astoria has the added bonus of our Fourteenth Street Gallery. Coastal multi-media artists are featured.

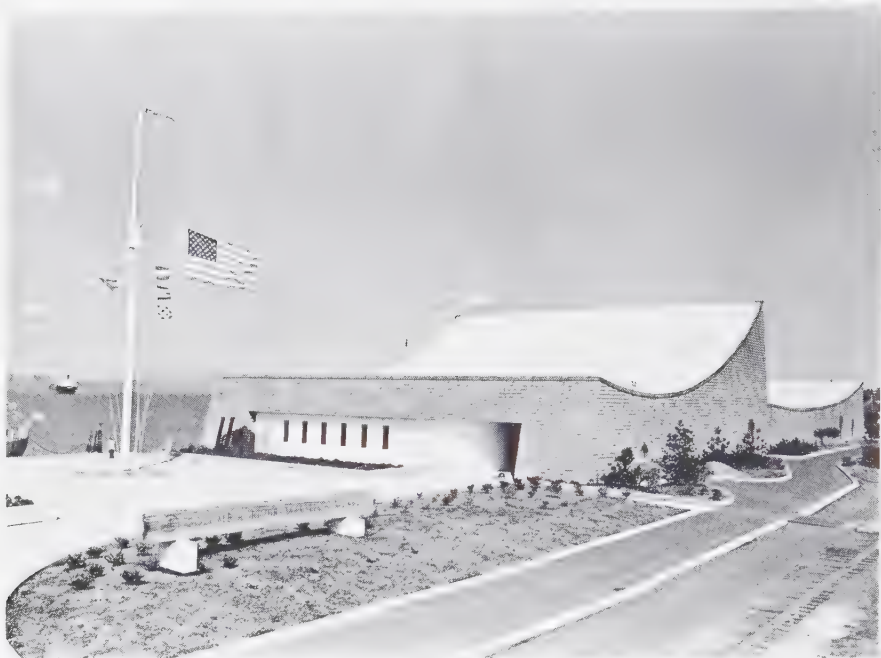

We are open 9-6, Monday through Saturdays. The Seaside store is also open 12-4 on Sunday during the summer.

THE COLUMBIA RIVER MARITIME MUSEUM

The Columbia River Maritime Museum, recognized as one of the finest and most extensive maritime museums on the West Coast, is located at the foot of 17th Street in Historic Astoria. The unique profile of the building, suggesting wave crests, stands out on the Astoria waterfront, just steps from the river. The museum's 25,000 square feet of exhibit space is divided into the Great Hall and seven galleries, each depicting a specific aspect of the Columbia River's maritime heritage. The Museum's largest artifact is the lightship COLUMBIA, the last of its kind to serve on the Pacific Coast. It is also open to the public.

FLAVEL MANSION

A Victorian mansion built in 1883 by Capt. George Flavel, a wealthy bar pilot, merchant and master of a sailing fleet. He imported an architect from San Francisco to design this elegant home, which was built by ship's carpenters. The material and workmanship could not be duplicated today.

The historical society has furnished the mansion with period furniture and artifacts. The six fireplaces all have mantels of exotic wood and tile.

The museum houses Victorian costumes, china, glassware, ancient music boxes, paintings, pianos and organs. It also has a display of pioneer tools and kitchen utensils.

The museum located at 8th and Duane is open 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. daily.

OTHER HISTORIC OLDER HOMES

About 400 interesting old residences are listed in the historic buildings inventory at city hall. About sixty are described in a booklet: "Walking Tour of Astoria" for sale at local gift and book stores. These homes, mostly on Franklin and Grand Avenues between 8th and 17th, are private and not open to the public, except as house tours arranged by the Clatsop County Historical Society. Their museum is in the 1885 Flavel Mansion at 8th & Duane.

Considered to be the oldest existing house in Astoria is the Capt. Hiram Brown House, 1337 Franklin, built in 1852.

Two private homes which are on the National Register of Historic Places and are particularly photogenic are the Hobson House (built in 1863) at 469 Bond and the Benjamin Young House (1888) at 3652 Duane. Both are occupied by descendants of the original owners.

(These are private homes, and not open to the public.)

FORT CLATSOP NATIONAL MEMORIAL

Rt. 3, Box 604FC, Astoria, OR 97103 (503) 861-2471

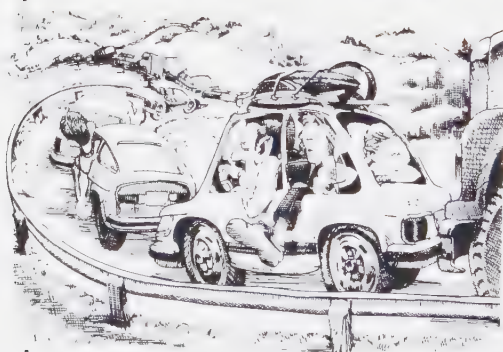

Fort Clatsop was built as winter quarters in 1805 by the Lewis and Clark Expedition. It was here that all the information gathered on the journey west was compiled during a very wet winter. Nearly constant rainfall made life miserable for the explorers. In the Spring of 1806 the expedition abandoned the fort and began their return trip to St. Louis.

The fort slowly deteriorated through the years. Occasionally travelers would take note of the building's condition. Finally homesteaders got rid of the remains except for one log that marked the spot. Through the years the location of the fort was kept alive through word of mouth. Through the aid of local residents and by referring to descriptions left by Lewis and Clark, the fort was reconstructed on the original site. It was rebuilt in 1955, just in time for the Lewis and Clark Sesquicentennial.

Today, Fort Clatsop is a National Memorial administered by the National Park Service. During the summer, Park Rangers dressed in buckskin clothing perform a variety of "living history" demonstrations and programs, and bring to life the story of the Lewis and Clark Expedition. The visitor center at Fort Clatsop houses museum exhibits, and audio-visual programs are shown in the auditorium. The park is open every day of the year except Christmas.

Park Hours: Fall, Winter and Spring: 8 AM-5 PM
Summer (mid June-Labor Day) 8 A.M.-6 P.M.

FORT ASTORIA

In 1810, John Jacob Astor of New York organized the Pacific Fur Company to engage in the fur trade on the Columbia River. This company sent the ship "Tonquin" by sea and another party overland, the two to meet at the mouth of the Columbia River. The men in the "Tonquin" arrived at their destination in March 1811, and built Fort Astoria, the first permanent American settlement on the Pacific Coast. After many hardships and loss of lives the overland party arrived in the winter of 1811. Due to the War of 1812 and the loss of relief ships, the Fort passed into the possession of the British, but was restored to the American flag in 1818. Replica of the blockhouse is at 15th and Exchange Streets.

The rocky North Oregon Coastline hides a secret that the traveler can easily discover. During low tide periods, the ocean reveals tide pools carved into the rock that extends for miles underwater. Due to heavy sand losses over the past years, these tide pools are more evident. Tide pools are really living seawater aquariums. The animals that live in them depend on the tides to bring food. Each of these creatures have evolved specialized equipment to strain nutrients from the seawater. Some tide pool critters are very colorful, like the sea anemone which grow in shades of green and blue and are disguised to look like plant life when they are actually animal life.

Starfish are often found in these pools along with mussels, limpets and in rare cases, the very tiny chiton. There are a number of good books available on tide pools and tide pool animals. Local bookstores usually have these books or you can get more information from the Mark O. Hatfield Marine Science Center located in Newport, further down the coast. The easiest tide pools to view are located on Cannon Beach surrounding haystack Rock, or on Indian Beach in Ecola State Park. The only thing dangerous in tide pools, besides slippery rocks, are humans. Please enjoy the pools, but leave the animals where others can enjoy them as well . . . happy hunting.

INDIAN TRAILS TO MAIL

The Indian trails from the Columbia River to Puget Sound gradually developed into the routes over which mail, supplies and passengers were transported. The mail from Astoria to Olympia was delivered three times weekly. A letter from Astoria crossed the Columbia River by steamship to Ilwaco. Then the Ilwaco-Oysterville stage took it from Ilwaco to Oysterville, traveling part of the way on the beach. At Oysterville the letter was loaded on a boat for a trip across Shoalwater Bay to Tokeland, where again a stage picked it up and carried it to Grays Harbor. Then back on a boat for a trip up the Chehalis River to Montesano . . . back to a stage for the final leg of the journey to Olympia, capital of the Washington Territory.

In 1889 a narrow gauge railroad was completed. It served the peninsula between Ilwaco and Nahcotta, providing transportation from the steamships in Ilwaco to the steamships in Shoalwater Bay, arrivals and departures for the ships depended on the tides, so the railroad schedules were adjusted accordingly. The Ilwaco railroad served this area for more than 40 years.

HISTORIC OYSTERVILLE

Oysterville, located on Willapa Bay (also known as Shoalwater Bay) is the most northerly settlement on the peninsula. Founded in 1854 by R.H. Espy and I.A. Clark. They were guided to the rich oyster beds located there by Indian Chief Nahcati. The demand for oysters in San Francisco and the natural oyster beds in Willapa Bay soon created a boom town with a population of 500.

The county seat was moved from Chinookville to Oysterville in 1861 and remained there until 1893 when it was moved to South Bend. Still standing is the little red cottage, built in 1863. It housed the courthouse records until a larger structure was built. Oysterville was the site of the first public school, the first newspaper, the first clam cannery and the first college in Pacific County. It was the trade and cultural center of the area.

Over-harvesting and bad weather conditions took its toll on the oyster beds and the town began to fail. Then the Ilwaco Railroad decided to terminate the line at Nahcotta, and that became the deep water port for Shoalwater Bay. In 1866 mother nature handed Oysterville another blow, when one tide carried away 18 homes. The tides have gradually claimed much of the land that was once a thriving community.

A number of residences from the late 1860's and 1870's still remain. The Tom Crelin home, built in 1869 is still occupied by a descendant of the family. Others are the Little Red Cottage - 1863, R.H. Espy House 1871, and the Baptist Church - 1892. Services were held there until 1940. It is open to the public.

The Pioneer Cemetery, just outside Oysterville contains the remains of the Clarks, the Espys, Chief Nahcati and many other pioneers. A visit to Oysterville is a must during your stay on the peninsula.

TILLAMOOK COUNTY

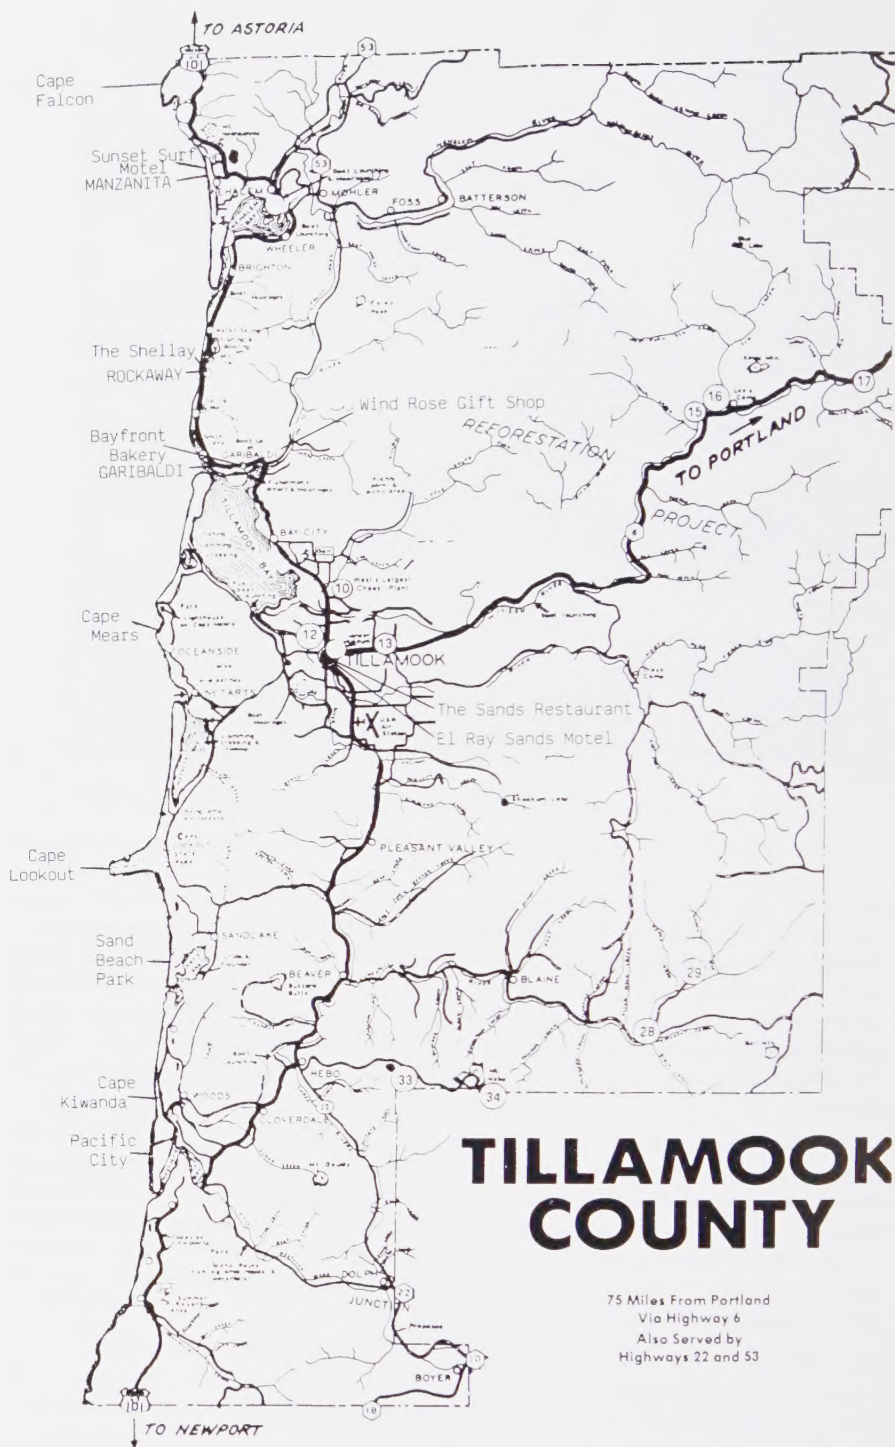

Captain Robert Gray was the first American explorer to land in Oregon and his landing was in Tillamook Bay in 1788. Captain Gray's historic landing was eventful in as much as a dispute arose between a crewman and the natives and the crewman was slain. What is now known as Tillamook Bay was then known as Murderer's Harbor because of the incident.

The first white man to live in Tillamook County was Joe Champion, who made his home in a hollow tree for nearly two months in 1851 (a replica of this tree is in the Pioneer Museum). Other hardy men like Wilson, Trask, Vaughn, Quick and Dougherty were the first of the mountain men to live in Tillamook County. Joe Champion came by the sea and the others came over the tricky trails of Neah-Kah-Nie Mountain. Henry Wilson is credited with bringing the first cattle to the area.

The pioneers of Tillamook County got along well with their Indian neighbors, probably because of Chief Kilchis and his fairness and friendliness toward the settlers. While other tribes were waging uprisings and raids on other Oregon pioneers, Chief Kilchis kept the peace of Tillamook County.

The Trask Road was the first wagon road in the county over the Coast Range, being established in 1871. Later, another wagon road was built following the Wilson River, and connected Tillamook to Forest Grove. Later this road became one of the most popular stage routes in the state.

The earliest farms in the area did not pamper their cattle, but left them in the open year-round. The milking was done in an open corral. The cows were dried up during the winter months and were only milked during the summer. Many farmers only shipped butter two or three times a year and barns did not appear until the turn of the century.

POINTS OF INTEREST

OSWALD WEST STATE PARK & SHORT SANDS BEACH

2,500 Acres, fishing, camping, ocean beach, hiking, fireplaces and picnicking.

MANZANITA

Hike up Neahkahnie Mountain for a breath-taking view. The little town of Manzanita is tucked beneath the mountain next to the beach. Golf course and ocean beach.

NEHALEM BAY STATE PARK

294 campsites, ocean beach, picnicking, dumping stations and boat ramp.

NEHALEM

Quaint shops, excellent camping facilities, fishing and clamming. Boat rentals and launching.

WHEELER

Motels, restaurants, charter fishing trips, boat launching ramps and clam digging. Trout, steelhead, salmon and perch can be caught in the Nehalem River.

ROCKAWAY

Summer resort area with condominiums, motels and restaurants. In 1909 J.O. Bozarth, George and Robert Watt and Dr. W.C. Hawk of Bay City formed a beach promotion company, buying Rockaway Beach which was the old Thompson Homestead. They had it surveyed and named it Rockaway Beach after Rockaway Beach, Long Island, New York.

Rockaway is one of the best kept secrets on the Oregon coast with miles of sandy beaches just one block west of Highway 101. You'll also find boating and fishing available along with amusement centers, quaint shops and unforgettable sunsets.

GARIBALDI

Fisherman's Wharf, motels, restaurants and moorage. In the 1860s Daniel Dodge Bayley became one of the first settlers in the County and the town he named is located on the Old Bayley Claim. A few years previous to this his hero, Guiseppe Garibaldi had nearly single-handedly welded the small states into one entity and called it Italy. Too, he had been a fisherman in the early part of his life. It seemed to Mr. Bayley that the proper name for the fledgling community located on Tillamook Bay with the Pacific Ocean just beyond the bar should be Garibaldi.

TILLAMOOK CHEESE FACTORY

World Famous Cheese. Observe the cheese making process. Visitors welcome.

TILLAMOOK PIONEER MUSEUM

Three floors of exhibits including a replica of a pioneer home, many early settler home and farm tools, photographs of the county settlers, Indian artifacts, a gun collection, old automobiles, about 500 specimens of wildlife prepared by Alex Walker, and many more items of interest.

CAPE MEARES

Lighthouse, the "Octopus" Tree was featured in Ripley's Believe It Or Not as "Seven Trees In One". Rugged scenery of sea cliffs.

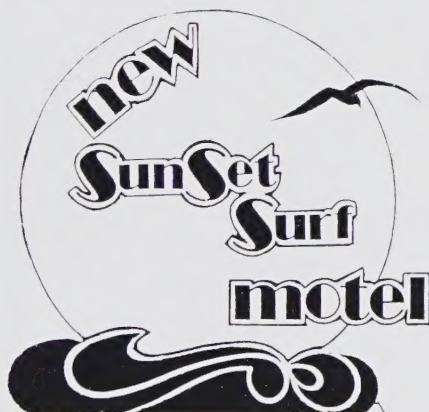

CAPE LOOKOUT STATE PARK

1,500 acres, Camping, RV parking, community kitchens, ocean beach, hiking, easy access for handicapped.

CAPE KIWANDA

Spectacular cliffs and a sand beach from which dories are launched.
